Chai - What Can I Do For You Today?

The number eighteen (chai), reflects Judaism's focus on the importance of life. It also has special personal significance for me this month. It is my honor and pleasure to have served as your rabbi for the past eighteen months. And I very much look forward to the next eighteen months and beyond. Exciting signs of new energy, if not infinite possibility, continue to emerge in Rochester and at Temple Beth David.

But does this apply in February? In Rochester? At Temple Beth David? Yes! For starters, February 2nd is Groundhog Day, which reminds me of one of my favorite movies, the 1993 Harold Ramis film, Groundhog Day. In case you haven't seen it in awhile (or ever), the movie is about a weatherman named Phil Connors (played by Bill Murray) who lives Groundhog Day over and over and over again. Egotistical and sarcastic weatherman Phil is sent to Punxsutawney, Pennsylvania to report on whether or not Punxsutawney Phil, the groundhog, "sees his shadow," and returns to his burrow, signifying that there will be another six weeks of winter.

Caught in a kind of science fiction-like time loop, Phil wakes up every morning in Punxsutawney on Groundhog Day to Sonny and Cher endlessly singing "I Got You Babe" on his clock radio. He is the only one who knows this is happening. Phil goes through cycles of dismay, hedonism, despair, and self-destructive recklessness until he decides to learn how to be a mentsch. He discovers that developing a "what can I do for you today" attitude makes him a lot happier than the "what can I do to you today" attitude he displaces.

Professional movie reviewers explain Phil's transformation in so many ways that the movie seems to operate as a Rorschach test. It's very possible to understand the movie as a man's decision to realize his self-potential or a person learning to see the "angel" or the Divine spark in another person or possibly an individual switching from one who always sees the glass as half empty to one who sees it as half full.

Each interpretation of the movie, like a snowflake, and like each one of us, is unique. It depends upon where we are in our lives. We do not have to live the same day of our lives over and

I am seeing a lot of activity at Temple so far in 2011, and it feels great. The website has many new pages and updates. We are hard at work on developing clearer and easier procedures around event planning and membership. The marketing committee is promoting a number of exciting programs. A fundraising committee is being formed. The ritual committee is asking important questions about the length and content of services. A group is forming to look again at strategic planning in regards to location and long-term demographics. The Sisterhood and Men's Club are meeting regularly. Lifelong learning is ongoing, and a new building beautification committee has a number of ideas on how to make our environment more attractive and welcoming. (Just to name a few.)

Each of these initiatives is critically dependent on the input of numerous individuals, and it is a pleasure to see people working together. The amazing thing is how rewarding this work can feel. Every successful interaction, every incremental improvement to a process, every positive experience at an event, every repair or beautification of our building, every collaborative email or meeting adds to the strength of our community. And everyone who participates feels it. Please let me know if you do not feel in-the-loop on all this activity. Maybe I can help plug-you-in to the right group or activity to match your particular passion.

Of course we have our challenges, and the Board of Trustees and other synagogue leaders are working to address them. As we achieve the various degrees of success in meeting these challenges, we will emerge wiser and more spiritually fulfilled.

Like almost everyone else in Rochester, when Arthur and I look out our living room window, both the window and our front yard are half full -- of snow -- but what else is out there in a Rochester winter with which we can fulfill or even transform our lives?

Quite a lot. This month, The Harold Grinspoon Foundation, the Farash Foundation, the Jewish Community Federation, the JCC, Temple Beth David and other local synagogues join together in rolling out of the innovative PJ Library Jewish literacy program. This offering will enable family members to connect in a meaningfully Jewish way through literature, music and art. Families with children between the ages of six months to eight years who subscribe to PJ Library will receive, free of charge, a wonderfully creative and age-appropriate book or CD every month. Watch for information on how to sign up for this terrific community resource. Also be on the look-out for PJ Library-sponsored Temple Beth David events throughout the year.

Also this month, Temple Beth David will continue its new Lunch and Learn program of adult education. Our interactive program debuted last month with a hearty lunch and a spirited discussion about the significance of the Exodus, Mt. Sinai, and our own place in the world. This month, author and TBD member, Susan Baruch, has a wonderful story to share with us all, "My New Life As a Writer." Like watching a Harold Ramis film, listening to Susan's journey can both touch us and inspire us to perceive our lives and our world in new ways.

When Arthur and I talked about whether or not we should move to Rochester, we thought about the people we met at Temple Beth David. We said to each other words that Bill Murray says at the end of Groundhog Day: "It's so beautiful, let's live here."

Small Conservative Shul Collaborative Torah Study

Around 10 years ago, the Federation offered grant money for collaborative adult education programs. Out of this came a series of yearly shabbatons hosted jointly by Beth David, Beth Am, and Beth Hamedresh-Beth Israel called the "Small Conservative Shul Collaborative". The sessions evolved to include a monthly Torah study program and participants meet the second Wednesday of each month at 7:30 p.m. at BHBI, 1369 East Avenue. We hope you can join us.

NEED-BASED SCHOLARSHIPS AVAILABLE

The Foundation for the Jewish Community of the Jewish Community Federation has a limited amount of funds available for need-based scholarships. These scholarships are available to Jewish students having a permanent Rochester address, who are studying Jewish content for high school and college credit, and for Jewish teens who participate in an accredited summer, semester, or year long, Israel experience program.

APPLICATION DEADLINE: March 27, 2011

For more information or an application contact Josh Boress, 461-0490 or jboress@jewishrochester.org

Sisterhood Scholarship Opportunity

Scholarships are available to Temple Beth David's youth who meet the following requirements:

1. His (her) family is a member in good standing of Temple Beth David and his (her) family is a member in good standing of Sisterhood.
2. If the participant has been accepted into a program sponsored by a bona fide Jewish Organization, and can submit proof thereof.
3. He (she) has submitted a written request to the Sisterhood President, no later than April 1 of the year of the proposed trip.

The funds available will be evenly divided among all applicants, subject to the approval of the Sisterhood Board. Sisterhood offers this incentive in the hopes of encouraging our youth to participate in these educational experiences, and hopes that the youth benefitting will, in turn, be a positive influence on our youth to join similar activities.

Tikkun Olam

Three baskets of school supplies, books, mittens and socks were delivered to #50 School in January, and they were very much appreciated! Next it looks like some of the teens will be helping out at the Maplewood Library over February break with kids from #50 School as well as other city schools. It feels good to be building an ongoing connection with a part of our community that can use our help. and what sorts of activities people are interested in.

Please remember the ongoing collections outside of the 3rd grade classroom-- plastic bottle caps and school supplies and new/ gently used children's books for #50 School.

Also, watch for information about a Tikkun Olam survey that will be available on the TBD website. The survey will help us understand the role that tikkun olam plays in our congregation

Thank you and keep up the generous spirit!
